Council Studies Lend-Lease Community Center Financing

Plan Would Finish Bldg.

Money To Be Borrowed From Corp. And Repaid Out Of General Fund

A lend-lease measure for financing the completion of the Community Center Building is now being considered by the city council.

Following their regular open meeting Monday night, the city council adjourned to a caucus meeting to discuss the new plan.

Mayor Paul Green and City Attorney Frank Blum were authorized to make a trip to Los Angeles, Burbank, Beverly Hills and Culver City to look into the lend-lease procedure.

The decision to attempt the new financing, follows by three weeks the rejection by voters of a $180,000 bond issue to complete the building.

The tentative plan was described by Mayor Paul Green as:

1. The Public Works Corporation of Los Angeles, a private firm, will advance funds to finish the structure and purchase necessary equipment.

Rental

2. The Corporation will then in turn lease the Community Center Building to the city at a fixed rate. Over a period of years (probably five) the city will, in effect, buy back the building from the Corporation. Payments would cover principal and interest, much as an individual purchases a home.

3. Money for payment of the lease will come from the general fund. This will not mean raising taxes.

Mayor Green and City Attorney Blum will seek the answers to the following questions:

1. What rate of interest will the Corporation charge? Will the over-all cost be much more than the $180,000 (and interest) originally figured for completion of the structure?

Title

2. Can the city turn the title of the building over to the Corporation, or mortage the structure? The city already has $295,000 invested in the building.

3. How has the plan worked in other cities where it has been tried?

Mayor Green today emphasized the plan was still under discussion, and nothing definite would be decided until further details were obtainable. He said he "may" go south next week, but, again, nothing definite had been decided on the time of the trip authorized by the city council.

Legally, the mayor said he could se nothing wrong with the plan.

Moral Obligation

Morally, his answer was the same. He said although the $180,000 bond issue to complete the building had been rejected, this did not necessarily mean the residents were opposed to completion of the structure.

"I believe they were simply opposed to raising taxes, not finishing the building," the mayor said.

Westlake Assn. Meets Monday To Elect Officers

Seven Nominated For Five Positions

The annual meeting of the Westlake Improvement Subdivision Association, for the nomination and election of the Board of Directors for 1952 will take place Monday, December 3, at Jefferson high school at 8 p.m.

Seven members of the association, along with any member nominated at the meeting prior to the election Monday night, will form the ballot for the five director positions.

Two members, Harry Bosbery, 126 Westlawn avenue, and George Pingry, 8 Cliffside drive, are seeking reelection.

Bosbery, member of the board directors, urged that all members of the association attend.

Bosbery said there are many important problems facing the board next year, and it is up to members to choose the officers to carry out these tasks.

Nominations will be accepted from the floor before the election. Any member of the association may submit his choice.

According to Leonard Oppenheim, chairman of the nominating committee, there are seven nominations to-date.

Along with Bosbery and Pingry, the other nominees are Frank Taylor, 141 Wilshire drive; William Ziegler, 26 Parkwood drive; Vernon Williams, 81 Cliffside drive; Howard Dunbar, 93 Fairway drive; and Fred Kruse, 78 Lake Forrest drive.

Purpose of the Westlake association is to improve and maintain the living conditions of the people in the tract.

Refreshments will be served after the electorate.

Bus System Under Fire

Former Daly City Councilman Demands Better Service From San Francisco

(Editor's Note: Number of residents present at Monday night's city council meeting—4.)

Decrying the present "poor" bus service from San Francisco to Daly City, Ed Cavagnaro, 428 Irvington, Monday night called on the city council to do something about the situation.

This was the principal matter up for discussion at the regular meeting Monday.

The former city councilman asserted busses terminated at Geneva avenue and "dumped off hundreds of Daly City residents" at night. Once more, he claimed, express busses going to Daly City simply ignore the people trying to get home from Geneva avenue.

"I feel a little effort on at least half of the city council's part would do much to remedy this situation," Cavagnaro said.

Mayor Paul Green replied that the council was aware of the present situation, and for the past 1½ years has spent a "lot of time" in respect to transportation.

"This is only temporary, and will be remedied when the new trackless trolleys go in here," the mayor said. He added the new service probably would go into effect early next year.

"Do you mean the residents have to put up with this situation for another four weeks?" Cavagnaro asked.

Investigate

"We will make an investigation, and see what can be done," the mayor replied. He pointed out, however, that the busses run from San Francisco, and by San Francisco, and the city is powerless to do anything but make a request for better service.

Cavagnaro also strongly objected to the busses double parking on Mission street during the rush hours. He asserted this "may lead to a bad accident" any day now.

"We've been pretty nice to San Francisco, but they are not treating us very nice," Cavagnaro said.

More Business

Other business before the council included:

1. Rejecting a $150 claim against the city by Joseph Kukula, 530 Dividero. Kukula asserted he did $150 damage to his car when he ran into a hole while parking on the Alemany extension October 21. He said the hole was not properly designated, and as it was night, he was unable to see it. Mayor Green pointed out this highway is under the jurisdiction of the state, and in rejecting Kukula's claim, referred it to the

TAX BILL ADDITION REALLY NOTHING NEW

That addition to your county tax bill is really no addition at all.

Some taxpayers became alarmed when they found the "Northern San Mateo County Sewer District" at the bottom of their tax bills. This is merely another name for the now defunct Colma Sewer District, and takes in a greater part of Daly City. When the tax bills were printed the Colma District was dropped, and it wasn't until later that the new district was added . . . this time at the bottom of the bill.

Councilman A. J. Gaggero explained the tax rate remains substantially the same for the new district . . . about 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Residents Fail To Meet CC Quota

40% Below $9950 Is Final Score

Daly City-Colma residents fell short of their 1952 Community Chest quota, contributing $6,295, approximately 40 per cent less than then $9,950 goal.

Campaign headquarters of the San Mateo county Community Chest committee announced this week that it had collected $253,000 against its goal of $361,000, falling short by 30 per cent.

Chest executives and the county committee met this week to discuss plans for raising the additional $108,000 needed to finance the 15 Red Feather agencies in the county.

Chest President George H. Atkinson said that a firm stand of action would be taken to complete the drive as quickly as possible.

As of November 21, Bayshore had collected $1,391 and Brisbane gathered $284.

Christmas Fete

Santa Arrives Here

By MRS. MICHAEL V. CUBIC

There's an element of expectancy and joy as the beacon of Christmas lures everyone from the spectacles of reality to the enchanting illusion created by the Mothers Club in Santa Claus Land on Sunday, December 2, in Our Lady of Perpetual Help School Auditorium, 80 Wellington avenue, Daly City, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The King of the North Pole will reign over the improvised Toyland and not only make each child's annual visit to Santa Claus a reality, but every child may have his picture taken with him. Santa Claus will have a gift for every child.

The Doll Booth, where motion pictures will be continuously shown, will feature musical dolls this year.

With the highest hopes of making Christmas shopping a pleasure rather than a chore, the Mothers Club has lavished its skill in assembling together a varied and seemingly endless array of gifts. At the Sewing Booth inspiration will be found in the exquisitely handworked linens—not a luxury to dream about but a surprise, kind to the budget. Being tagged with moderate prices naturally it's first come—first served!

Mom's Day

The innovation of the Delicatessen Booth at the Bazaar will minimize worries about lunch or dinner as the special economic advantages will preclude thought of cooking at home. It will be Mom's day out of the kitchen as savory foods contrived to satisfy the gourmet's appetite will be there to take home to serve. For dessert, the Cake Booth will provide many varieties of luscious home made cakes topped with delectable frostings.

The Surprise Package Booth will have as its focal interest the "un-

TOYS NEEDED TO HELP SANTA

Won't you help Santa to help a child this Christmas?

The Lions Club is now collecting toys for the children that may be overlooked by Santa. Repairable toys are badly needed.

Those interested in contributing are asked to leave their toys at Guido's Meat Market, 6001 Mission; or call JUniper 4-6616, and the toys will be picked up.

Councilmen To Meet With Supervisors

Several City Councilmen will attend the joint dinner meeting of the county board of supervisors and city officials from throughout the county, scheduled for November 28 at the Villa Chartier in San Mateo.

A letter requesting the city officials' presence at the joint dinner meeting was read at the last council meeting.

Primary purpose of the meeting is to discuss mutual problems of the cities and county.

Daly City "Jimmy Valentine" Opens Lucca Market Safe For $2,500 Loot

Police today are looking for an experienced safecracker who last Sunday did a professional job of blowing the safe at Lucca Market, 7370 Mission, and escaping with $2,500 in cash and checks.

The yegg evidently hid in the store after the Sunday 1 p.m. closing, and, sometime between then and the Monday morning opening "operated" on the safe. He made his exit by removing the hinges from the back door.

The Daly City "Jimmy Valentine" knocked the combination off the safe, and with professional care, put just enough explosive in the hole to blow open the door without making too much noise.

"He really knew what he was doing," Detective Roy Beecher said today.

With the job completed, the safecracker carefully wiped every fingerprint from the safe and surrounding chairs and desks.

Before leaving, he celebrated his work by lifting four bottles of whiskey.

Community Center

THE VOTERS, "NO"

Politically, it does not appear wise to openly defy the voting residents.

Morally, any man who believes in the democratic system should question the wisdom of riding rough shod over the duly expressed wishes of the voting residents.

Legally, there is some doubt whether any body of five men, no matter how well meaning, can disregard the mandate of an election.

Politically, morally, legally . . . the whole plan to refinance the Community Center Building adds up to but one thing: complete disregard for the basic tenets of democracy.

It is a deplorable way of circumventing the wishes of voters, as expressed November 6, when they rejected the $180,000 bond issue to complete the Community Center.

To be sure, the plan is still to be born; but even to consider such a measure, three weeks after an election, is a slap in the face to every voting resident.

The law takes the minority under consideration, by forbidding a second bond issue for at least six months. The city council says "to heck with the law," and figures out a method of beating it before the April general elections.

This is not to say we are opposed to completing the Community Center. The Record is strongly in favor of this, as expressed editorially weeks before the November 6 election. We believe another bond election should be held . . . better managed, better explained . . . and we are sure the measure will pass.

We are opposed, however, to the attitude displayed by the city council. This is an attitude of: "We know what is best for the voters, but they don't."

Mayor Green weakly justifies the investigation of the plan by noting residents did not vote against the Community Center, but rather against raising taxes. This is an assumption that no one man, not even the mayor, is fit to make.

However, for argument's sake, let us say the mayor is right. Let us say residents wish to complete the building, but not raise taxes.

We wonder if the mayor has ever heard of robbing Peter to pay Paul. Under the plan, money which might be used for other purposes—such as the development of parks, and a firehouse at Westlake—will be channeled out of the general fund into the Community Center.

No, taxes will not be increased; but the purchasing power of the community for furnishing better accommodations for residents will be greatly diminished.

And what of the overall expense? There is no answer to this yet; but it appears the plan would be more expensive than floating a bond.

Some councilmen, fortunately, are not as optimistic as the good mayor. They question the whole procedure. We only hope they have the courage to speak, before they hang themselves, and, what is worse, the taxpayers of Daly City.

And, by the by, the money needed to finance the jaunt of the City Attorney and the mayor to Los Angeles might well be used for such a simple thing as resanding the benches at Marchbanks Park.

Broadmoor Baby Dies In Mishap

A two-months-old Broadmoor boy suffocated to death Tuesday evening when a diaper became entangled around his head while he was in his crib, Broadmoor police reported today.

The only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fratto, 903 Bradley Drive, was found by his mother at 9:25 p.m., following an hourly bedside check. She had been visiting neighbors with her husband.

The neighbor, Chester Knupila, 907 Bradley Drive, rushed the child to Junipero Serra hospital, where efforts at artificial respiration by Dr. Paul Mossman and Patrolman Raymond Savage failed to revive him.

Private funeral service in the form of graveside blessing at Holy Cross cemetery were scheduled to take place Thursday morning. Funeral arrangements were in charge of the W. C. Lasswell company.

Reader Asserts Children Do More Damage To Yards And Lawns Than Dogs

(Ed Note: Last week we published a letter from an unsigned reader complaining about dogs running loose and tearing up lawns and plants. The reader asked for some law to make owners keep their dogs within bounds . . . a law which the city attorney is presently working upon.

Following is a reply to the unsigned reader's letter:

449 Santa Barbara avenue
Daly City 25, California
November 24, 1951

Dear Sir:

Re: Letter from Unsigned on dog trouble.

I have been waiting for an opportunity to write about complaining people like unsigned.

Some miserable complainer had to report my dog as a nuisance and had the dog catcher come around with his truck to pick my dog up. Due to the fact that the dog is kept inside all day, naturally the dog wasn't around but a note was left on my door to this effect, "Please keep you dog in at all times or on a leash. We have had too many complaints of your dog scratching up lawns and digging in shrubbery and plants." Signed Poundmaster's name.

My dog goes out with my daughter when she gets home from school and says with her and the whole complaint was a fabrication.

Did Unsigned ever stop to think what damage to property is caused by children in Daly City to gardens, lawns, shrubs, etc.? Would the parents of these childrens want to put them on a leash and deprive them the freedom of their legs and outside companionship?

A General Electric clock-radio and a Silex steam iron will be chief awards of the Bazaar. Hostesses in the Refreshment Booth will serve lunches and snacks the entire day.

Chairmen

Mrs. Francis Denning, general chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames: George Bonini, Donald Neville Brown, Andrew J. Chrystal, M. J. Cresta, Michael V. Cubic, Richard Ennis, Leon Fellman, R. E. Hathaway II, John Jordan, Alvin McArdle, Horace Siino, and L. A. Tiebaut III.

Mrs. Denning and her chairmen extend a cordial invitation to friends, members, and the general public to avoid many baby-sitting and shopping problems by attending the Bazaar where there will be myriads of gifts on all Christmas lists.

Remember the date and place: Sunday, December 2, at 80 Wellington avenue, Daly City, with Santa Claus greeting all of the children in person.

Local Man Gets Parking Citation

Daly City's hill continue to enpolice department as Walter R. Hollingum, 161 Los Banos avenue, learned Tuesday.

Hollingum's car which was incorrectly parked in front of his home, went on a downhill rampage and collided with a car belonging to Howard Frankhouse, 182 Los Banos.

Hollingum was issued a citation by Daly City police for incorrect hill parking.

Man Is Locked In Local Tavern

Because he was able to attract the attention of a Daly City policeman, Charles Viery did not spend the remainder of a night locked up in the Globe Tavern, at Mission and Market streets.

Sunday morning around 3 a.m. he was in another part of the premises when the place was locked. When the officer saw him, he contacted Dino Agresti who came and opened the door for his imprisoned customer.

fell short of its necessary two-thirds majority by 16 per cent. Of the total votes cast, 1,438 were for the issue, and 1,080 were opposed.

"I feel an insufficient number of people voted to show the true feeling of the community," the mayor said. "And although the bond issue failed, the majority appeared for competion of the structure."

It was also brought out at the Monday night meeting that at least $60,000 to $70,000 would be needed to put the south wing of the building into use. This would include a heating plant and electrical system for the auditorium, gym, lobby, lavatories, dressing room and offices.

Under the present city budget, no allowance has been made for such a large sum.

"In other words, unless some money is raised soon, the building will stand idle for at least six months until we can hold another bond election," an official said today.

Rather than wait six months the council struck upon the idea of the lend-lease financing.

Councilman A. J. Gaggero said "something has to be done" to complete the building."

'However, I want to respect the people's opinions," Gaggero said.

Cost

As to the compartive cost of financing the building from a bond issue or from the lend-lease plan, Mayor Green said more details were needed before any answer could be given.

"Under the plan, we will draw money from the general fund. This fund will be augmented each year by an increased assessed valuation and, therefore, will not necessitate raising taxes."

Councilman Gaggero said he questioned whether the lend-lease system will not be more expensive than a bond issue. However, he said he wished to have more information, before making any statement.

Other city councilman could not be reached for comment today.

"This is only a tentative program," Councilman Gaggero concluded, "and it is in no way final."

He said a public hearing would be held before the plan would be accepted, and at that time residents would be given the opportunity to express their opinions.

3. Approved resubdivision of several sections of Westlake.

4. Set January 14 for a hearing on vacating a portion of Abbot street between Castle and Market street. The land is no longer necessary for the city's use, and will be turned over to property owners in the immediate vicinity.

5. Introduced an ordinance setting up a plan whereby unclaimed property, turned into the police department over the year, can be auctioned off.

The Other Side

Children in my block have torn up my plants, ripped off blooms, kicked in the grille in my garage door, broken milk bottles containing milk, leaving a permanent stain on the concrete walk, also leaving broken bottles and jars around, thereby causing flats to my auto, plus playing on and kicking up the lawn, also dirtying up fresh white paint. I would say they were far more destructive than dogs.

I would like to tell unsigned that I did have a pedigreed Cocker poisoned in my own back-yard by somebody, as has also another neighbor on the same block. My dog died, but the neighbor's dog was gotten to the vets in time to save her.

Before the city attorney draws up a new ordinance making further restrictions against dogs, he had better investivate further into destruction of property by children.

Unsigned says all he or she can find wrong with Daly City is the mess dogs make. All I can find wrong with Daly City is certain people living there with nothing more important to occupy their time but to look for trouble instead of trying to rectify the trouble by visiting your neighbor and straightening out a grievence.

Signed,
Mrs. Muriel Smith

Safety Certificate Presented Here

Daly City's program to provide protection for pedestrians, as planned by Chief of Police Roland A. Petrocchi, was accorded signal recognition today by the California State Automobile Association.

Daly City has undertaken an extensive accident-prevention campaign designed to protect pedestrians against the hazards of traffic and to provide greater safety and convenience for those afoot.

As part of the program, the city has entered the nationwide pedestrian protection contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association and its affiliated club here, the California State Automobile Association.

Honor Award

A certificate, acknowledging Daly City's pedestrian proiection program and officially enrolling the city in the AAA contest, was presented to Chief Petrocchi at his office today by Samuel W. Dutart, district manager for the CSAA. In presenting the certificate, Dutart said:

"Daly City's entry in the AAA Pedestrian Protection Contest lays the groundwork for a continuing program of pedestrian safety activities in our community. Effectiveness of pedestrian activities carried out by progressive state and city officials is demonstrated by a general nationwide reduction in pedestrian deaths during the last fourteen years. In 1937, a pre-contest year, 15,500 pedestrians were killed in traffic as compared to 8,800 in 1950.

Fatalities

"Despite a 14 per cent increase in population and a 63 per cent increase in total annual mileage driven, factors which would normally increase traffic hazards for persons afoot, pedestrian fatalities have been reduced 44 per cent since the beginning of AAA contest activities. Non-pedestrian traffic deaths have increased 5 per cent during this period."

Urging drivers and pedestrians alike to cooperate in reducing the city's pedestrian traffic toll, Chief Petrocchi listed the following safety suggestions:

For drivers:

1. Give full attention to driving.
2. Give pedestrians right-of-way at intersections and when turning.
3. Obey speed limits. Reduce speed in business sections, school zones and residential areas.
4. If you drive, don't drink. If you drink, don't drive.

For pedestrians:

1. Cross only at corners and watch for turning cars.
2. Be alert when crossing; don't bury your head in a newspaper or an armful of parcels.
3. Obey traffic signals.
4. Wear or carry something white at night so that drivers can see you.
5. Walk on the left facing traffic where there is no sidewalk.

Car Wash Causes Loss Of Ring

Washing his automobile at a Daly City service station Friday wasn't exactly profitable for Frank Kosta, Jr., of 25 Grafton street, San Francisco.

To engage in this labor, he took off his yellow gold diamond ring valued at $200 and placed it on the premises of a local service station.

He drove off in his clean car forgetting about the ring. When he returned from it, the ring was gone, according to his report to Daly City police Monday.

PG&E REQUESTS RATE INCREASE

A $1,534,000-a-year increase in gas rates was asked by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company last week, meaning a monthly increase of 6 cents to the average householder if approved.

Appealing to the state Public Utilities Commission, the request was in addition to the $16 million dollar raise already approved.

The six cents hike would be an addition to the average 75 cents a month increase granted thus far in 1951.

Community Chest Needs Help

While Daly City residents contributed a good part of the $9,950 Community Chest quota, more money is needed to carry out the work of that agency in the community.

During the next two weeks, the city will launch a drive to make up the close to $4,000 deficit. It is hoped everyone will support this second attempt to reach the "top," especially those who failed to give during the early months of the campaign.

And even those who have given money to the Chest are urged to dig a little deeper. The difference between a dime collected here, a nickle there, may mean everything to those dependent on the Chest.

During this Christmas season, let us all remember the real spirit of the holiday. Don't fail to do your share to bring the Community Chest over the top in Daly City.

Christmas Seal Appeal

From now until Christmas Day, the annual Tuberculosis Association appeal for funds throughout the State will be on. Officials of the various chapters hope that all citizens will bear three things in mind when the seals they are asked to buy arrive in the family mail:

1. Tuberculosis, although its death rate has been greatly curtailed in recent years, still remains a deadly scourge—taking one American life every 13 minutes.

2. Work of the association, which has saved many lives, is centered largely on prevention—on discovering the disease early, when the chance is brightest for speedy and complete cure. A major service is provision of free chest X-rays for many thousands of children and adults.

3. The association's only means of raising funds for its work is through the annual Christmas Seal sale. It conducts no other type of fund campaign. The extent of the life-saving service it may achieve through the coming year will depend upon the generosity of the public during this seal drive.

The Heart Of The Problem

We see where another reader has taken issue over the "dog question" in Daly City.

She contends children are more of a threat to a neighbor's peace of mind, and his yard, than any dog.

She has a point. No one will deny a child's ability to make a pooch look sick when it comes to rooting up grass, tearing out plants, and generally raising havoc.

This whole question of dogs and children (and, we suppose, even cats and goats) is something no city can legislate against.

Laws can be passed to keep dogs on leashes, children off the streets and goats out of town; but it is going to take a mighty fast moving policeman to enforce any of the rulings.

The whole thing is simply one of getting along with the next fellow. If you have any respect for your neighbor, you try to keep your dogs and children off of his lawn. And if he has any respect for you, he forgives those few times when Ralph or Rover get out of bounds.

They say there is the one "saw" every man should review five times a day. Were he to follow these words there would be an end to dog and children problems, and, for that matter, wars.

That inscription is simply: "D.... it, you've got to be kind."

Ah, The Welfare State

Interesting notes to everyone interested in the welfare state:

Mr. Daly Cityite has at least 8½ years of steady work guaranteed him—come more inflation, deflation, depression, or what not, according to research figures compiled by a statistical association.

The average Daly City man is described as a 29-year-old married man, earning $4300 a year, with two children. If he works until he is 65, he will have paid out in all forms of taxes a total of $37,163, the reaserchers figure.

That means he will have worked, at $4300 a year, about 8½ years of his remaining career solely for Federal, State and local governments. That's years of work without personal compensation of any sort—but it is work Mr. Daly City couldn't get out of if he tried.

Perhaps that is the real meaning of the job security the Welfare Staters continually prate about!

Television And Local Education

We see where a study has been made which reveals 27 per cent of all families now own television sets.

A look at housetops, especially those in Westlake, will convince any Daly Cityite that the estimate is low. We imagine at least 50 per cent of the local households can brag of some type of television.

We don't know whether "brag" is the right word, but regardless of personal feelings, TV is here to stay.

Although we take issue with a good many of the programs, a step in the right direction was made this week. One of the local TV stations is turning over a portion of its time to educational use...to bring to residents the importance of their schools.

We think another step should be made, as suggested by many leading educators. Let us have a TV network for programs expressly for the schools. In this way the better side of TV could be brought to the children while at the same time they could be educated the "easy way." This is not to say all school time should be devoted to TV programs; but an hour a day, on some worthy topic, should not be frowned upon.

This might, also, solve another problem. For as soon as junior has associated TV with school work, he may not be so prone to spend every spare minute before the front room set. It will give him a sense of relative values, now so badly needed in TV viewing.

Novel Contest Opens Here

A novel type of contest opened in Daly City this week. The purpose of the campaign is to educate pedestrians. The prize is your life.

Under the direction of the Daly City police department, an extensive accident prevention campaign is now underway. As part of the program, the city has entered the nationwide program sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

Currently, the pedestrian death rate in Daly City is remarkably low. This, in no small part is due to a fine police force; and, of course, the residents who take the time to look both ways before plunging into the street.

We hope the record will continue to be a fine one, and that come next year Daly City will take a prize in the most worthy contest we have heard of in many a day.

"A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE"

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

England, although in many ways behind the "states," has one custom which we might do well to copy.

We speak of "pub crawling." This phrase hardly does justice to the noble practice, as it connotes the familiar drunkard putting down his last pence for beer while mom and the kids are scraping the empty stew bucket at home.

Actually the fine art of "pub crawling" is a far cry from such a common superstition.

As understood in England, this nightly tour of the taverns is more a social activity than an effort to see how much you can consume before falling off the bar stool. It is the one opportunity during the day when the fine art of conversation may be practiced in an atmosphere befitting the leisure necessary for thought.

The English pub differs in many ways from its counterpart in America. For one thing it is liberally endowed with easy chairs, often a fireplace, and plenty of room to move around. Even the lavatories have a certain spacious quality so sadly lacking in American taverns.

Wisdom

Another difference can be found in the clientele. It was with some wisdom that American servicemen were warned, in an appropriate booklet on foreign customs, that women in English bistros are not necessarily "pick-ups." The English have a habit of moving from tavern to tavern en family, i.e. with the wife, and often the kids. Except for the larger cities, single women rarely are to be found within the sacred walls of the ale house.

Another custom, now observed in some Canadian gin parlors (and in one San Francisco hotel) is a room set aside for men only. This gives the gentleman an opportunity to converse, or get beautifully drunk, without the benefits of a woman's censorious gaze.

No TV

But what is more important, the English have yet to install a TV set in the sacred domain of conversation and spirits . . . or at least so reports a friend of ours now stationed overseas. This invasion, in our humble opinion, was the final blow to an American equivalent to "pub crawling." When once men could speak, no mater how incoherently, they have now been silenced by the ever moving pictures at the end of the bar.

Generally, too, there is a lack of hospitality in American gin mills, not found in England. Too many bartenders work on the theory that the more you drink the happier they are. Little thought is given to the man merely attempting to find a place where he may converse for a few hours over one humble draft of spirits.

And for those who put little faith in the power of drink, the English accustomed to serve tea at the pubs, doing this with cheerfulness and understanding. Ask an American barkeep for anything less than a beer or bromide, and he is apt to treat you with the disdain befitting all "dumb" beasts.

Rain Water

And for those who do enjoy a good drink, the English can serve up beer or bar whiskey that tastes like something besides distilled rain water. (Here, however, we might mention one discouraging trait of the English drink . . . it is rarely cold.)

This is not to say all American bars are lacking in the fundamentals necessary to encourage "pub crawling," no more than all English pothouses are perfect in this respect. However, in a day when movies, radio, and TV are rapidly diminishing the art of conversation something should be done to secure the last outpost for those who enjoy gathering to exchange small talk without the interruptions of garrulous women, and Milton Berle.

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

Significant Statements by Interesting Californians

CHUCK TAYLOR, Stanford football coach — "Personally, I'm against all post-season bowl games. They drag the season out too long and put too much emphasis on winning."

ROBERT LITTLER, atty. for S. F. Hospital Conference—"The problem of hospitalization costs is soluble without the odious apparatus of bureaucratic medicine."

MILO ANDERSON, L. A. fashion designer—"Every girl should take as much time picking out a bathing suit as she does a party gown. It is the least she can do for us men."

Narcotics Among Juveniles Now P.T.A. Study

Teaching Program To Combat Drugs

Studies on the control of narcotics distribution and law enforcement in San Mateo county have been undertaken by the legislative committee of Seventeenth District California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

At the same time Mrs. G. J. Sirex of San Carlos, district president, reports that a committee appointed at the November State Board meeting in Los Angeles is concerned with effective teaching of the harmful consequences from use of narcotics and alcohol.

Coupled with these committee activities is the conscientious work of narcotics investigators in the office of county district attorney Louis B. Dematteis. A letter commending his office and staff has been approved by the district PTA membership.

State health and safety code amendments and Federal laws under consideration provide stiffer sentences and no probation for continued narcotics violations. According to State Attorney General Edmund G. Brown additional funds will be required and an increased department needed to enforce these stricted penalties in California.

Taxes

States Demand More Participation In Fixing National Tax Rates

"The tax dollar is rapidly leaving state and local governments. It is being consumed by Washington," said Frank E. Packard, Executive Vice President of the Western Tax Council while in San Francisco last week, attending a series of tax conferences.

"Twelve years ago the tax dollar was divided about equally among federal, state and local, but today thre-fourths goes to the National government," he said.

His further comment emphasized the fact that this is on the basis of peace time expenditures. It excludes the cost of National defense.

Our state, county and city treasuries are feeling the impact of this rapid trend toward a federal socialized economy. Free enterprize is being hit hard with the tax take permitted under the unlimited powers of the sixteenth amendment to the Constitution.

Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury in 1924 said, "It seems difficult for some to understand that high rates of taxation do not necessarily mean large revenue to the Government, and that more revenue may often be obtained by lower rates. There was an old saying that a railroad freight rate should be 'what the traffic will bear'; that is, the highest rate at which the largest quantity of freight would move. The same rule applies to all private business. If a price is fixed too low, sales may increase, but again profits decline. There is a reasonable balance, in government as well as in business."

Income Ceilings

With a majority of the members of twenty-six state legislatures having adopted a resolution to demand that Congress submit to the states the matter of Federal taxation and the placing of a 25 per cent ceiling on income, gift and estate taxes we have seen that members of Congress do listen. President Truman asked for a ten billion dollar tax a few weeks ago. Congress "stopped, looked, and listened" and voted five and a half billion.

Right now there is a salutary effect on Washington's expenditures and its reckless levying of taxes. Six additional states are required to reach the necessary two-thirds, or thirty-two states, to pass the resolution which will compel Congress to let state legislatures have an opportunity to have something to say regarding Federal taxation.

Arizon and Colorado are expected to adopt the resolution in January. The California legislature will have the opportunity to join with the others at its March session.

County Head Fights For Steel

The county board of supervisors authorized County Manager E. Robert Stallings to fly to Washington next month, in an attempt to clear the way for a million dollar county construction program.

Refusal by the National Production Authority to allocate the necessary steel and other critical building materials has delayed local construction.

Projects now stalled are the $141,000 central fire station and civilian defense communications office, west of Belmont, and approximately $800,000 in construction at the Community hospital.

Four applications for the Belmont project have been rejected by the NPA and four applications for the Community hospital are pending.

In presenting the motion to the board, authorizing Stalling's trip, Supervisor Martin A. Poss stated, "It seems imperative that we take action at once if we are going to accomplish anything."

Stallings stated likewise, declaring that a direct appeal would be the only method to obtain action.

Local Real Estate Man Praises A. L. Stockton Lumber Co. For Fair Deal

The Record
3317 San Jose Ave.
Daly City, Calif.

Dear Sir:

This may not be news but it certainly is different and refreshing, a business firm that puts integrity before profit. The following is an experience that I had with the A. L. Stockton Lumber Co. at 6100 Mission St., Daly City.

I phoned one day last week to get an estimate on some lumber to repair a fence for one of our clients. Our client lives in the East Bay area, so this estimate was submitted to her by mail and she mailed us a check by return mail for the amount. This morning when I phoned A. L. Stockton Lumber Co. to order the lumber it developed that a mistake had been made, the estimate was 30% low and had not been submitted as a firm bid. However, when I explained the embarrassing position that it put me in, the A. L. Stockton Lumber Co. agreed to deliver the lumber at the lower price and to accept our clients check as payment in full.

This is the atmosphere that we need in the world today, what a blessing it would be if we could depend on every person and every nation to do what they say they will do, even when it costs them money. Hats off to A. L. Stockton Lumber Co. I hope they will profit 100 fold for their loss.

I am Ralph W. Arent, of the Trinity Company located at 6825 Mission St. here in Daly City and I will consider it a personal favor if you would print this letter and help spread the good news.

Sincerely yours,
Ralph W. Arent

Reader (Via A Poem) Calls On City For Certain Needed Improvements

BLUE MONDAY

I stood on pneumonia corner waiting for a bus.
The rain was pouring down and did I cuss.
What we need is some kind of a shelter, then we wouldn't make such a fuss.
A bench on the west side of the Bank would be a big help to the tired elderly people.
Young mothers with 3 or 4 children get tired also.
Some kind of an awning over the bench these wet days would be nice.

We need another crosswalk at West Lake avenue and Mission street.
We come up the hill, we are all out of wind, we see our bus coming a short distance down Mission street.
We have to run across West Lake avenue, across Mission street, then across East Lake avenue, then another 20 feet, then we get the bus.
If we had another cross walk we would only have to cross Mission street.
The bus stop is in the wrong place for the one crosswalk.
After all, if we get hit by a car it isn't so painful if we are hit in the crosswalk.

Resident Calls For Green Lights In All Windows To Salute Servicemen

November 24, 1951

Editor
The Record

Dear Sir:

We just had our first Thanksgiving dinner without our son, who at present is stationed in Japan.

Although we missed him so much, especially on a day that all the family belongs together, we still had much to be thankful for.

Next, it is Christmas, another first for our boy away from home.

I was wondering if Daly City families of service men or women this Christmas would follow me in placing a small "green" Christmas light in their front windows.

The light, for all to see, would show that the thoughts and prayers of that home, with the green light, would mean "go" to our service men and women wherever they may be this Christmas.

I know many merchants in Daly City who will place that little green light for the "kids" in their windows to remind their customers that these same "kids" were one of their best customers.

It costs so little to remind so many that their merry Christmas over here is safe, because of the "kids" over there.

Remember, Daly City, a little green Christmas light. Let's "go" for them, they went for you and I.

Thanks a million (green lights)

Community Chest

Emergency Fund Drive Launched Here To Meet Deficit Of Recent Campaign

Faced with a deficit of over $100,000, the San Mateo County Community Chest this week embarked upon an emergency fund drive to raise that sum in order that the Chest's vital youth and welfare agencies will not be forced to curtail their important services during 1952.

Daly City mayor, James Paul Green, realizing the critical situation faced by the chest if next year's fund goal is not reached, today issued a plea to all Daly City citizens to aid in the Community Chest emergency fund raising drive during the next two weeks.

"The Daly City-Colma Chest quota for the 1951-52 period," Mayor Green stated, "had been set at $9,550. To-date only $6,295 has been raised. This is the reason why a concerted effort must be made in order to meet the Chest goal here."

Call Made

"Daly City citizens," the mayor stated, "will be called upon to assist in this vital chest campaign over the next 14 days, and whether in the role of a volunteer solicitor or a contributor it is my opinion that our citizens, businessmen and industrial organizations will not let the chest down."

"Residents here," Mayor Green said, "must recognize the magnificent year-around work done by the 14 agencies supported through the chest. If we step up to this serious Chest problem shoulder to shoulder, each capable person or group assuming their responsibility, the chest agencies will be able to maintain their services to youth, the less fortunate, our soldiers and sailors and the sick."

Generous

It was Mayor Green's opinion that residents here would wholeheartedly get behind the Chest Emergency Drive and with customary unselfishness and generosity see to it that Daly City's Chest quota would be reached quickly and easily.

George H. Atkinson, Community Chest president, today expressed the belief that San Mateo county's citizens would not stand by and see the chest agencies face a disastrous curtailment of their services due to lack of funds. It was his opinion that citizens in the county would "rise to the occasion" and offer their contributions voluntarily.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

America's Fault?

SOMETIMES I get a letter that makes me angry. It may be written quite innocently and in good faith, but the effect of it is to make me say to the writer: "Why don't you go play in your own backyard?"

Such a letter lies on my desk today. It is signed by a woman who lives in Philadelphia; both she and her husband are foreign-born, but came to this country as small children.

"If this is the finest country in the world, we don't see it," says the letter. "We would certainly go back to our own country if we could afford it. But salaries there are very low and there is no work for women or girls. Here my husband makes about $138 a week, and I am paid $35 a week for night work as chambermaid in a hotel. We have seven children, and live in a five-room apartment which does not, naturally, allow for comfortable living. My two older boys have a paper route that pays them well, and my husband is very thrifty, we are saving money, although giving the children a television last Christmas and in other ways trying to make up to them for crowded quarters. Rents are high and space scarce everywhere.

Impudent Child

"My problem is our oldest child, Bev, who is 15. She has been acting with great independence lately, and has come home late on three occasions, smelling of liquor and cigarettes, and saying that she could not remember where she had been. She is in first year high, does well, is pretty enough, and liked by her classmates. Her father whips her, but it seems to have no effect. His desire is that she stay home, as I am absent from 5 to 11 p.m. daily, get dinner and keep an eye on the younger children, so the boys can get their papers delivered. But she is impudent, and says she will run away. She has lately been offered a job as ticket clerk in a movie, after school hours, but we forbid her taking it.

"I cannot myself see what is so great about a country," Marta's letter continues, "in which the young people have so much freedom for dangerous associates. At home girls are obedient and make themselves useful in the house. Here it is all cigarettes, lipstick, permanents, boys and running the streets. A lady came here recently to tell me that Bev would be put into a school for girls, a kind of institution, if she was seen again with certain men. Am I to blame if in our neighborhood these dangers exist? What argument can we use to save our girl from ruining her own life?"

As I say, this letter makes me mad. I often get mad these days at parents who do as they please, live their own lives, neglect their families in body, soul and mind, and look calmly to America to educate, amuse, instruct, train and discipline their children for them.

Absent Mother

Seven children packed into five rooms, through Pennsylvania's burning summers and freezing winters; mother gone all through the afternoon and evening hours, father coming home tired and work-stained to find a rebellious 15-year-old child trying to control younger children, boys made to gulp their dinners and get away, and little Bev, hungry for her own share of this money-making and freedom, for the delights of the lighted streets and the crowds and the cokes and sodas and flickers, is expected to spend her evenings washing dishes, cleaning rooms, and getting small children to bed.

Years ago this mother should have gotten her brood away from the city. When a man and a woman are responsible for seven other human beings they have to make changes and sacrifices. These people should have found some rambling old deserted place in the shabby outskirts of the city, made sure there was a spacious backyard, and devoted themselves to becoming a family, and not a group of detached money-makers. Don't write me, Marta, that there are no such places; there are hundreds of them.

Modern plumbing, electric light, washing machine, double garage, television included? Of course not! But neither have any of the villages of the European country from which Marta and her husband came any of these things. Marta's ancestors worked hard to gain the comforts of family life, but they never heard of such luxuries, nor of cokes and movies, cars and corner drugstores. They never heard of free schools whose curriculum included gyms, musical training, organized play, theatricals, swimming pools, medical and dental inspection.

Recreation Commission

Parks Progress Report Given; Field House Renovation Completed

Renovation of the field house at Marchbanks Park will be completed by the end of next week.

This was the report given the Daly City Recreation Commission at their regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Recreation Director Elman Rose told members that the approximate date of completion had been given him by City Administrator Dan Andersen. Commission members expressed approval of the job.

In another matter of interest to fans at Marchbanks Park, Rose reported that Mayor Paul Green had told him the bleacher seats (now full of splinters) will be repaired shortly. However, he could give no exact time as to when work will begin on improving the seats.

Reports

A progress report was also given on the various parks:

1. Frankfort Playground: the fencing of the park will be completed shortly, and tufted grass is to be planted so as to make a fine softball field in the spring. A lavatory building is to be built by the city, but members of the Recreation Commission were unable to learn when this job will begin.

2. Edgewood Park: The banks have been planted with ivy, and when this is "settled," apparatus and courts will be set up. Officials expect the park will be ready for use in two to three months.

3. Commission Director George Pingry said he would attempt to ascertain the status of the Colma Playground, and report at the next meeting. As the Jefferson Elementary School District has been deprived of funds for anything except necessary building, there is some question as to whether they will be able to go in with the city in financing such a playground at Colma school. Original plans had been for the city to put up about half the money for surfacing and equiping an area around the school for children's use in southern Daly City.

The Commission was unable to ascertain just what had happened to this plan, and Pingry then noted he would look into the situation.

$3,000 Fire Guts Westlake Apts.

Work was completed this week on repairing two Westlake apartments partially destroyed by the biggest fire here in six months last Thursday evening.

Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy today estimated the amount of damage to the two apartments at 20 Lynwood Drive was from $3,000 to $4,000.

The fire, which gutted the kitchens of apartments 23 and 24, evidently started in the wall furnace, Chief Kennedy said. It had gotten a good headway when reported at 5:40 p. m., but was well under control a half hour later.

Dodge Trucks Take Honors In National Contest

Carl L. Haas of Carl Haas Motors, local Dodge dealer, received word that 50 of the 97 state champions competing in the three major events of the 1951 National Truck Roadeo in Chicago chose Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks to drive in the spirited contest for national titles.

Six of the nine national championships awarded in the straight truck, the tractor single-axle semi-trailer, and the tractor tandem-axle semi-trailer classes were won by contestants driving Dodge trucks.

All three places in the tractor single-axle semi-trailer event were won by drivers who chose a Dodge JA-128 (2½- ton) truck. Albert D. Pomahatch, driver for Merchants Motor Freight, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., won the national title in this event. Guern Royster, driver for Pacific Intermountain Express, Oakland, Calif., won second and J. Clerk Gilbert, driver for Inland Motor Freight, Spokane, Wash., won third.

Two of the three championships in the straight truck event were won by drivers who chose a Dodge GA-152 (1½-ton) truck. They included Kenneth A. Folck, driver for Lee & Eastes, Inc., Portland, Ore., who won second, and Elvie A. Harris, driver for Great Southern Trucking Co., Jacksonville, Fla., who won third.

Norman L. Hulker, driver for Claxon Truck Lines, Inc., Frankfort, Ky., drove a Dodge YA-142 (4-ton) truck to win third in the tractor tandem-axle semi-trailer event.

Five state champions who had won their titles in state eliminations while driving other makes of trucks switched to Dodge trucks in the national finals after they drove them on a Chicago practice course. Eight manufacturers offered trucks in the national finals, and the 97 champions representing 34 states were free to choose any of the eight trucks to drive. Sixty per cent of the champions chose Dodge trucks to drive in their bid for national honors, or more than all other makes combined.

County Manager Refutes Criticism Of 1951 Tax Level

Although Tax Higher, Valuation Lower Here

County tax critics were labeled "unjust" this week by County Manager E. Robert Stallings.

He specifically refuted a statement by Charles J. Asche of the Institute of Applied Management that San Mateo county's tax rate is the "highest in the state"... a whopping $7.55 for $100 valuation.

"Asche's comparison of this county's tax rate with that of other counties is meaningless," Stallings declared. "His criticism is predicated upon a comparison which any informed individual or organization would recognize as being entirely invalid."

Means Nothing

Stallings asserted the tax rate, when used alone, means nothing. He said the final "tax take" is the important thing. He said actual differences in the tax rates exist in the variation of assessed valuation.

(In Daly City, for example, the overall county and city tax rate is higher than San Francisco. However, as our assesed valuation is lower, the total tax take is less than San Francisco.)

Real property in Santa Clara county, where the tax rate is $5.51 is assessed at 39 per cent of its market value while San Mateo county assesses at 29 per cent of the true value, Stallings explained.

Adjusting these rates to a common assessment indicates a difference in tax rates of only 17 cents..."hardly worth becoming excited about," Stallings concluded.

Local Firm To Build Redwood City Homes

A Daly City building concern—Sterling Building Company—will soon start work on a 260 home building project in the western part of Redwood City.

A Sterling Co. representative said the homes would be in the $12,500 class and have three bedrooms.

California C.P.T.I.

Parent Responsibility Best Check Against Spread Of Salacious Reading

Continued vigilance against the spread of salacious literature and offensive billboard advertising, an effective program of education, and parent responsibility because of the seriousness and increase of teen-age drinking were major concerns of the Board of Managers of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers meeting in Los Angeles this week.

Mrs. Edward T. Walker of Los Angeles presided over the two day session, which also unanmiously endorsed Mrs. Rollin Brown, past State President of the C. C. P. T. and prominent in many state-wide activities for the office of first vice-president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Brown is now the chairman of Legislation of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Brown is now the chairman of Legislation of the National Congress.

A resolution from Eighteenth District and letters from the Board of Managers went to the publisher and distributors of the California Publishers asking for its discontinuance. Because, "while posing as a moral crusader, its content is obsence and tends to entice misconduct." The resolution and letters also went to the Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth which is currently considering the same problem. A protest went to a California movie producer concerning revolting billboard advertising of a recent movie which had, according to Mrs. Ruth Hedges, Motion Picture chairman, "reached a peak in offensive advertising."

Lookouts

A mas media committee to reactivate a program of watchfulness in local areas was voted by the Board. The president appointed Mrs. A. Kenneth Spencer of San Gabriel; Mrs. Ruth Hedges, Los Angeles; Mrs. Kenneth A. Learned, Pasadena; and Mrs. Joseph S. Hook, Culver City. The committee will work with juvenile protection chairmen and law enforcement officers to secure the cooperation of distributors in banning offensive literature and advertising.

A special committee appointed by the President will re-evaluate with the educators the effectiveness of that portion of the education code which deals with the teaching of the effects of narcotics and alcohol. "There is a definite increase in teen-age drinking and resultant crime, with parents too often setting the example," Mrs. Ralph E. Lewis, Juvenile Protection chairman, pointed out. Through parent education this committee will seek to have parents assume greater responsibility and know the whereabouts of their children.

The National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters was commended for the recent adoption of the television code of program standards. A review board will get its stamp of approval through a TV field which stations may flash so long as they adhere to the code. The code imposes on the industry a definite responsibility toward children's viewers, Mrs. A. Kenneth Spencer, radio and television chairman, pointed out, and should bring about a much needed reform particularly in children's programs. "A survey made last May," she said, "indicated that 70 per cent of all programs televised exclusively for children were based on crime."

Gifted Children

Five hundred dollars was authorized for a grant at the University of California at Los Angeles for a study of the gifted child in the schools of California. Five fellowships of graduate students for study along the field of international relations were voted by the board. One of these will be for two thousand dollars for study abroad, and four will be for one thousand dollars each for study in the United States. Purpose of the fellowships is the great need for recruiting and training young people in various phases of Government services. Candidates will be selected by a state-wide committee of both professional people and board members.

Mrs. Waldron Hyatt, Health Director, will serve on a state-wide committee appointed by the State Department of Education to evaluate and set up guide lines for school nurse functions and requirements. This committee was considered necessary by the State Department because certificates for public health nurses are no longer issued by the State Board of Health.

Commendation

Letters were sent to Senators Nixon and Knowland commending the for their efforts to secure a priority policy for school buildings and allocation of critical materials. The president, Mrs. Edward T. Walker, reported the efforts of the National Congress which has five people in Washington working on the very serious problem. They are using, among other data, the list of critical area needs in California forwarded by her. "The National Production Authority during the last quarter made available less than 50 per cent of the estimated school needs and it is anticipated that during the next quarter it will be less than 40 per cent," Mrs. Ralph S. Dow, School Education chairman, pointed out. Local areas were urged to express their concern to their legislators in an effort to have an objective policy established.

Because of the deficit in funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and because of the high incidence of the disease in this State, the Board of Managers went on record supporting the March of Mothers and urges its members to volunteer two hours per year in their respective communities. The 1952 campaign of the California Heart Association and the California Society for Crippled Children will also be supported by the Congress.

Traffic Safety

All local areas in the State are being urged to cooperate with the Governor's during the month of December. Mrs. John V. Quinn, Safety chairman, reported statistics show more accidents occur in December than any other month, hence the need for special emphasis.

An addition to the National Congress policy on child care centers was approved by the Board. The addition provides that legislation will be approved which places child care centers under public school administration with State support, and with the Means test as a requirement for admission. Parents will be urged to participate in the program.

Building Fund

Chairmen who will be representing the Congress in important conferences include Mrs. Russell Scott, International Relations chairmen, who will be attending the Institute of World Affairs at Riverside, December 9th to 12th, and Mrs. L. S. Baca, Public and Dental Health chairman, who will be participating in a panel at the Fourth Children's Dental Conference in San Francisco.

A special holiday effort will be made to build California's share of the National Headquarters building in Chicago. Local associations will be urged to make this a gift to the children of the nation with the deadline set for January 31, 1951. Mrs. George Beanston, State chairman of the National Headquarters committee, reported that only sixteen thousand dollars of California's share of forty thousand dollars had been raised to date.

Emotional Honesty

Parents Should Not Punish Children For Showing Hatred Or Resentment

Emotional honesty is just as important to cultivate as is intellectual honesty or any other kind of honesty.

This is the firm belief of Dr. Nora Weckler, formerly of the psychology department of Maryland University and now a member of the teaching staff of University of California Extension in Los Angeles.

"Often, however, parents encourage emotional dishonesty in their children by punishing them for expressions of hatred or resentment," says Dr. Weckler, who will elaborate on the point during a series of lectures on Mental Hygiene for Parents she will give for University of California Extension beginning this week.

"When Johnny announces that he hates his baby brother, parents are not teaching him to love the baby by telling him that he is naughty or that he should love the baby because he is his brother. Such reprimands may cause him to change his behavior to disguise his feelings from others and even from himself, but they will not change his feelings.

"On the other hand, if Johnny is allowed to express his anger in some fashion without fear of punishment or of loss of parental love, he gets it out of his system. And because he is being honest, his parents will know how he feels, and will be in a better position to help him feel differently," the University psychologist maintains.

School Board

Residents May Donate Money To Beat Lack Of Funds For Landscaping Schools

Westlake residents this week indicated they would raise necessary funds to landscape their new school.

This was one district's answer to the recent cut of almost 50 per cent in money loaned by the state to the Jefferson Elementary School District for building. As the cut has been so drastic, the district is forced to slash every improvement, except actual construction.

Landscaping improvements, therefore, have had to be cut from original plans in the construction of the Westlake, Colma, and Garden Vilage schools.

This was borught out at the regular meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School Board last Wednesday evening.

To meet this situation, the board agreed to have a master plan drawn up for landscaping each school. Each year the district will take a section of the plan and make the necessary improvements.

Speed

In order to speed this arrangement, Harry Bosbery, Westlake Association official, said he was sure residents of Westlake would contribute money for landscaping.

Residents of Daly City and Broadmoor have expressed interest in a similar plan, the Garden Village and Colma schools,

Further action on this matter is expected when the master plan has been presented.

More Business

Other business Wednesday night included:

1. The purchase of incinerators for all the schools was approved.

2. A. H. Glantz was authorized $100 to represent the district in Washington, D. C. H. Z. Weibel, superintendent, explained Glantz was going to obtain allocation for critical materials, and represents all the schools in San Mateo county.

3. The State Department of Finance requested a third appraisal of proposed land to be purchased for the Colma School site. J. Mortimore Clark was appointed to make the appraisal.

School Bus

4. The board agreed to advertise for a school bus. It was explained that the owner of a used bus was offered $6,250, but he would not accept. He did agree, however, to deliver his coach for use by the district for $100 per week, the rental to apply on the purchase price in the event he would become a successful bidder.

5. The board agreed to move the bus stop for the Woodrow Wilson school to Miriam street, and have the children wait for the bus in the school. Should this not prove satisfactory, the district will erect a new bus shelter.

6. A letter was read from the Classroom Teachers Association stating that two members of their group would henceforth attend all school board meetings. Mr. Tergis and Mr. Pagani were elected, with Mr. Thatcher as an alternate.

7. The next regular meeting of the school board will be held December 20, in stead of December 27.

Mayor Robinson Thanks Voters

"Our City Must Gor Forward"

The following statement was issued last week by Mayor Elmer E. Robinson:

I am deeply grateful to my fellow San Franciscans for re-electing me mayor of my native city for another four years.

This is a challenge and an opportunity to expand and further improve the city services and facilities for the benefit of the people of each neighborhood and district of San Francisco.

Our city must go forward. But that forward progres cannot be made without the support and cooperation of all the people. I ask all citizens, individually, as well as all civic groups, neighborhood and downtown groups, industry and labor, to renew their interest in the problems of our city and to lend their fullest support to solving them. Progress must be placed and must remain above partisanship.

The overall welfare of our city must be placed above the private political ambitions of any individual or any group in this city.

Refusal

During the campaign for mayor I refused to engage in personalities because I felt then, as I feel now, that the mayor of San Francisco must maintain that dignity and self-respect which the people of this great city have the right to expect of their chief executive at all times and under all circumstances.

I repeat now that I have always regarded public office as a solemn public trust.

I never have, and I never shall abuse the confidence placed in me by the people.

I humbly and sincerely thank all those who so loyally and effectively supported and assisted me during the campaign.

I invite all men and women of goodwill to work with me for the continuing progress and welfare of the great city which is ours.

God willing, that unity of purpose will make San Francisco a greater and more beautiful city for our people to enjoy and for the world to honor.

Local Woman Reports Automobile Stolen

Mrs. Lorette Miller, 82 Tallwood drive, discovered Tuesday night that enjoyment of the show at the Cow Palace can have an unhappy aftermath.

She reported to Daly City police Wednesday that her car was stolen from in front of the large building. Her car, a 1950 sedan, is of light green color.

DIRT DOES DAMAGE

It is that oily mass of dirt that manages to collect on the outside of the engine that so positively increases the fire hazard due to carburetor backfiring, warns the National Automobile Club. This is especially true of engines of earlier vintage, but not entirely untrue of the modern power plant that is rather better protected. Periodic cleaning of the engine on the outside is a sound precaution.

Irene Maloney Installed As Head Of Popular Daly City Organization

by MRS. E. K. WHINNEN
Publicity Chairman

The joint installation dinner of the Daly City Sportswomen and the Daly City Rod and Gun Club was a huge success.

The dinner was good, the spirits mellow, the mood gay. The two clubs turned out en masse to make this event one of the best of its kind we have had. No incident marred the well fitting pieces of the evening.

After the dinner, speeches (fortunately short), installations, and presentations of gifts, there was dancing, informal and enjoyable. Some went home, but many stayed until taps, enjoying the once-a-year get-together to the full.

Installed for the Sportswomen for the coming year were Irene Maloney, president; Laurine Fox (all year I've spelled it wrong), vice president; and Jo Flansburg, secretary-treasurer. Looks like a pretty good year ahead.

Ceremony

The installation ceremony by installing officer, Anne Van Dyne, was simpie and dignified. Esther Sheer, friend of Anna and guest of the club, acted as sergeant-at-arms for the Sportswomen, the club having dropped this office when the membership was too small to justify it. After the ceremony, new president Irene Maloney was presented with the gavel by out-going president, Mildred Whinnen.

Not to be out-done, Irene presented Mildred with a Parker 51 pen and pencil set, as a gesture of appreciation by the club for the last year's work.

The first meeting of the club under our new president was held November 21, at the home of Marge Lynch, 6458 Mission street. Delegates and alternates to District Council 7, of the Associated Sportsmen were appointed.

Delegates

The delegates are: Marge Lynch, Jo Flansburg, Irene Maloney, Leanora O'Neill and Mildred Whinnen, who was appointed chairman. Marge Lynch was appointed publicity chairman for the coming year, and it was voted to re-instate the office of sergeant-at arms. Marge was elected to this office.

A Christmas party is planned for the next meeting, December 14. That is, on a Friday, Sportswomen, instead of the usual Wednesday.

A project to raise "working money" for the coming year was undertaken and undoubtedly some of you will be hearing more about this.

To those of you who have read this stuff over the past two years, my personal thanks. I've enjoyed writing it; hope you have enjoyed reading it.

Our new publicity chairman is Marge Lynch, who many of you know. I'm sure Marge will give this work her best efforts, and I hope you wolks will give her support. Thanks again, and hasta la vista.

Colma Parent-Teacher Group Plans For Christmas Party

With the topic "Holidays are Happy Days," the Colma Parent-Teacher Association is planning its regular meeting and Christmas Party for Tuesday evening, December 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Colma Community Center, Dunk St. off Washington, in Colma.

Mrs. Sanford Vickers, health chairman for Colma PTA, is to be congratulated on the fine job she did. So successful was this first attempt, that a return visit of the Bloodmobile is planned for late spring.

At the Executive Board meeting, extensive plans were made for the Christmas parties to be held in the two schools, Jefferson Elementary and R. S. Thornton, the last week before Christmas vacation.

Book-binding hours for this week will be Friday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Jefefrson elementary school. Anyone interested, please call Mrs. John Offenbach, PLaza 5-1659.

Crocker Women Donate Blood

That 13 members donated blood for the armed forces was reported at a regular executive board meeting of the Crocker Parent-Teacher association held Tuesday at the Crocker school.

The report was made by Mrs. A. Wittig, chairman of this department. The donation of blood took place November 21.

Plans were made at the meeting for a Christmas party for the children and for the decorating of a Christmas tree in the main hall of the school.

The next hot dog sale is scheduled for December 4 with the following women in charge: Mrs. M. Wakefield, Mrs. A. Wittig, Mrs. Schmale and Mrs. H. Michelson.

San Franciscans will hear a premiere of two modern works for concert band when the San Francisco College Symphonic Band gives its first concert of the season on Tuesday, December 4, at Commerce High School Auditorium, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

One of these new works is a complete "Symphony for Band," in three movements. It was composed expressly for the State College Band by Mr. Walter Tolleson, who recently received his Master's degree in composition at the college. This will be the first time that the Symphony will be heard in its entirety.

"Variations on a Western Tune" was also composed for the State Band. It was written by Mr. William Ward, faculty member at the college, who has numerous other compositions to his credit, one of them having won a prize at the Eastman School of Music. This particular piece is written in variation form, designed to demonstate the instrumentation of a modern concert band.

Conducting honors will be shared by Mr. Edwin C. Kruth, regular conductor of the band, and Mr. Frederick Pratt, assistant conductor. The program will also include Bach's Toccata and Gugue, and compositions by Richard Strauss, Handel, and Souza.

Last year, while on tour throughout California, the San Francisco State Band played for over 60,000 people, bringing good music to small communities as well as larger cities.

Recently, the band was chosen by the Music Educators of Northern California to play for their conference at Oakland.

This year the band boasts a total of over ninety fine musicians, many of them professionals, and almost all enrolled in the music education program at the college.

This concert is being sponsored by the Creative Arts Division of San Francisco State College. Admission is free. Here is an opportunity to hear one of the finest bands in the West.

DEAR PARENTS

By JANE KEITH

"Where do the leaves go when the winds blow them from the trees?" asks Malcolm. "Could they come to our house? Could they come to my school?"

"Mother? What does it mean when you say it's too cool?"

Little hand, big hand—little feet, big feet up the street. Up the hill to our house. It's a long walk from school!

"Why can't boys be like goldfish and live in a pool?" ask Malcolm.

Day after day, in the sunshine, fog or splashy puddles after rain the walks continue to the same refrain:

"Why is it, mother, that I can't be Johnny?" and I answer

"If you want to—when you're twenty-one." and quick, before he answers, give the humble, heartfelt "Thank you, God, for giving me a son!"

DEN JOTTINGS

By Louise McDonald

Hero worship of American writers by persons of other nationalities sometimes assumes enormous proportions. A short time ago we heard of a man of another nationality who patterned his entire life after Jack London.

In the country of his birth, he read London in translation and even there dressed like his hero and engaged himself in the same types of employment that London pursued. Naturally, all his planning for the future centered on owning his own place in the Valley of The Moon in Sonoma county.

And because dreams come true if you work and plan hard enough, this man was eventually able to come to the states. He is now the delighted owner of a house in the valley that Jack London made famous and works at one of the variety of jobs that his hero once held down. He is a very happy man, following thus in the footsteps of this individualistic San Francisco writer.

It's all in the way you look at it. Take the case of the retired European couple living in the bay area. After years of hard work and careful saving, their idea of how to spend their declining years is by heavy drinking. They adore attending parties solely for the purpose of getting drunk.

Just recently the wife bought herself a beautiful new automobile. It is kept in their garage and visitors to the house are taken into that place and shown the vehicle.

One evening, one of the visitors asked, "Do you drive it?"

The car's owner was indignant. She replied, "With all the drink-I do, you don't think I'd drive a car!"

When it comes to Christmas, we're on the side of the merchants who decorate many weeks ahead of December 25. In just a few more days, we're going to put up our Christmas tree so that we can enjoy its pine fragrance and sparkling lights as long as possible.

In spite of all this talk of commercialism in regard to a lengthy yuletide season, the fundamental spirit of the holiday, nevertheless, permeates every symbol and decoration commemorating the birth of the Man who advocated good will among all men.

For too many persons, the yuletide manifestations are the only contact they allow themselves with the Christian religion, and therefore, the longer they are exposed to this, the better it will be for the entire world. What matter if the concepts of peace on earth and good will among men do come in the guise of tinsel and Santa Claus? The ultimate result of creating kinder and more thoughtful persons may eventuate just the same.

AUXILIARY PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Christmas party plans were formulated at a regular meeting of the Lake Merced Auxiliary No. 9921, held Tuesday night at the Broadmoor Community Center.

The party will be held in conjunction with a regular meeting of the group on December 11, at the Community Center.

Persons are reminded of the organization's rummage sale which is scheduled for sometime in January. Anyone having anything to contribute for this is asked to call Mrs. Hazel Eagleton at PLaza 5-3378.

Indians End Season With South City Loss

Lions Trophy Stalemated; Awarded To Each School For Six Months

Football gear went back into mothballs, as the Jefferson Indians wound up their 1951 football season with a drubbing by their next door rivals, South San Francisco, 26-0.

After a six year stay at the local school, the rivalry plaque returned to the Warriors' stronghold, marking the first loss in six seasons for the Indians against South City.

As if the defeat was not enough, the Warriors stretched the score to a 26-point difference. For the last ten years, the two teams had never been separated by more than 14 points.

However, there was one consolation. The Sportsmanship Trophy, introduced this season by the Daly City-Colma Lions club, was awarded to each school for a six month period.

Based on conduct and sportsmanship, both on and off the field, the trophy was designated for the school which would be outstanding in these departments.

Because both schools acted so favorably, the judges found a decision difficult and decided on a compromise.

The road throughout the season was pitted with obstacles and hardships for the Indians, with them winding up their season in eighth place with a 2-win, 5-loss record.

From the opening gun nine games ago against Mt. View, the Jeffersonians never gained full strength. Coach Glenn South, continually harassed with injuries, saw player after player sidelined because of injuries, and entered the final contest with three of the 11 original starters.

However, Ray Tschirgi, the explosive fullback, menaced the league's forward walls all season and emerged with a second place tie in scoring honors along with Lazzeri of San Jose with 48 points.

Quarterback Willie Cahill flipped to a pair of touchdowns, and halfback Howard Goss and Dick Muelrath plunged over for two more tallies to down the Indians in the traditional Turkey Day clash at Hunter Field in South San Francisco. The Warriors scored a TD in each quarter, while the rugged forward wall shackled powerful fullback Ray Tschirgi's efforts.

Cahill flipped a 34 yarder to Goss, and capped a 70-yard drive with a pass to Don Oates for two TD's. Muelrath plunged for five in the final quarter, and Goss went for four yards in the first frame for the other scores.

Foster Drops Sarto From Undefeated In San Mateo League

Sartos Face Levitians In Title Clash Sunday

Fostre's 9-1 victory over Sarto A.C., toppled the local nine from the undefeated column in the San Mateo Winter league and set the stage for a title match between Sarto and the Levitians next Sunday at San Mateo.

Having one loss apiece, the Levitians lead the league by a half game with one more win than Sarto to their credit. A win for the Levitians Sunday will clinch the pennant.

Sarto will have a rough time getting over the professional-loaded San Mateo club.

Included on the Levitian's roster are Gus Suhr and Reno Cheso, formerly of the Seals, and many other professionals.

Sarto is composed mostly of local talent. Should the locals defeat the Mateans, another victory would be necessary to gain the championship.

They meet Pomona Tile the following Sunday.

The loss to Fosters broke a 13-game winning skien. Bob Tollander was the losing pitcher.

The Pacific Union Club in San Francisco, only one of the Nob Hill mansions to escape the great 1906 fire virtually unscathed, was formerly the home of James C. Flood, bonanza king.

WHEN SEAT DEFORM

Deformation of seat cushions, evident in a sagging of the coil springs and a wrinkling of the upholstery, may be owing to simple age or excessive wear, points out the National Automobile Club. It frequently happens, however, that the trouble arises from the fact that the seat is not properly anchored. Incidentally, this not only is hard on the cushion but hard on the driver as well, for the seat springs, properly used, are pretty fine shock absorbers.

RECORD TURNOUT OF 55 MEN GREETS ORLICH AT FIRST CASABA PRACTICE

Coach Mike Orlich, scratched his head and gazed in bewilderment at the large host of prospective basketball players that greeted him on opening day of practice this week.

The task was obvious although difficult. From the 55 eager tryouts, Orlich must choose five to start the 1952 season on January 12 against San Jose.

Little glimmers of hope flickered throughout the crowd. Lettermen Bob Murchison and Richard Bergstresser are the only two returnees from last season.

The 130 team of '51 has jumped, en masse, to the varsity. Don Del Bon, forward, Larry Blanchard, forward and All-PAL Dick Maquin, guard, Angelo Calorie, guard, and Don Wilson, guard, will bolster the Indian varsity.

Blanchard, whose magic number is 12, scoring that amount of points in at least three games last season, made the 130 All-PAL last year.

The Indian's attack will center around Bergstresser, 6-3 center. With the few lettermen, the strength added by the 130s' and unknowns among the 55 prospects, Orlich hopes to better last seasons record of 30 wins and five losses.

Signup For S. F. Basketball League

Entries for the San Francisco Municipal Federation Boys' Basketball Tournament, recently announced by the Recreation and Park Department, must be submitted to the department athletic office by Wednesday, December 26.

Team participation will be in Exponent Divisions; the 80, 90, 100, 110 pound classes playing six minute quarters; and the 120, 130, 145 pound classes playing eight minute quarters.

Players are eligible who have not reached their eighteenth birthday prior to the entry-due date. However, any boy who actually played or is playing in the 130 pound or 145 pound Divisions or over, in the P.A.A. or A. A. A. basketball Tournament during the 1951 season will be ineligible.

Tournament play starts Saturday, January 12. Each team will be allowed to carry ten players but participants can not compete for more than one playground or agency.

ANTICIPATION AND SAFE DRIVING

Anticipation is half the fun of a feast. It is also half the battle of safe driving, according to the National Automobile Club. When driving, anticipate the actions of the other fellow and you won't so often find yourself in these tight spots that call for catlike reactions to avoid disaster.

Announce Casaba Pentathlon in S. F.

Boys eighteen years of age and under will have an opportunity to test their basketball skill in a Basketball Pentathlon contest recently announced by the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department.

Contestants will be judged on ability at follow-up shooting, shooting against time, ability to dribble through obstacles against time, chest throw for distance, and accuracy in free throwing.

Boys will compete in seven different groups, figured on a straight weight basis in order to give each boy a chance to compete with those his size. The divisions will be 80 pound, 90 pound, 100 pound, 110 pound, 120 pound, 130 pound, and 145 pound.

The only boys ineligible to compete will be those who participated in the 130 pound and 145 pound or over division in the P.A.A. Basketball Tournaments during the 1951 season.

Elimination contest will be played at playgrounds and agencies and the names of the winners sent to the Athletic Office of the Recreation and Park Department not later than December 26 (Wednesday). These winners will compete in the City Finals scheduled for Saturday, January 5, 1952.

Winners and runners-up in the City Finals will receive medals.

SIGNIFICANT PPERCENTAGES

Lately car manufacturers have made use of some pretty emphatic figures to acquaint car owners with the dangers of running on underinflated tires, reports the National Automobile Club. One of them points out that a chronic thirty per cent underinflation will result in a fifty per cent shorter tire life. It is a combination of figures that should be worth reflecting upon.

Colma P.M. Team Defeat A.M. Squad To Win 1951 B League Championship

By HARRY ARONSON
Coordinator of Athletics

The championship of the B league was won by the Colma p.m. team last Saturday, November 24, when they downed a strong, aggressive Colma a.m. squad by the score of 12 to 2.

The game was a playoff affair between the two teams after they had ended their regular league games in a tie for the top position. The game was tight all the way as both teams stressed defensive tactics and waited for the breaks. The field, wet and slippery during the first half, made sharp cutting and running difficult as both sides tried to out manoeuvre each other.

In the opening quarter Danny Rasmussen, a.m. back, completed several sharp passes to team mates Carl Mecchi and Gieseker but were unable to dent the p.m. goal line until little Legus Watts trapped Daryl Hall, p.m. back, for a safety to put the a.m. team in the lead at end of the period.

The p.m. team, listless during the initial period, suddenly came to life as Andy Ruelas picked off one of Rasmussen's heaves, Rasmussen saved a TD when he knocked down a toss intended for p.m.'s Ray Del Pape, in the end zone. Ron Davis booted a long ball to the p.m. 12. On the first play Hall dropped back, saw team mate Gene Mascarenes in the clear, and let fly a perfect strike. Mascarenes made a beautiful snare and raced 35 yards to chalk up six big points for the p.m. team. The try for extra point failed and the score at half showed the p.m. boys leading 6 to 2.

Third Period

The third period saw a determined a.m. team fight back, but the defensive play of Hall, Miller, Mascarenes and Del Pape staved off many scoring attempts by the a.m. squad. Gary Atteberry, a.m. standout, intercepted one of Hall's passes and the excitement began. Rasmussen completed passes to Atteberry and Mecchi, but the alert Ruelas ended the threat by intercepting Rasmussen's long pass to Mecchi on his own 20.

Taking the ball on downs the p.m. team scored again when Hall threw his second TD pass to the elusive Mascareans, who just couldn't be stopped. Going into the last period with the score 12 to 2 against them, the a.m. team tried several desperation passes only to have Hall and Ruelas come up with the ball for interceptions. Gary Atteberry saved a sure TD when he batted down Hall's short toss to Del Pape on the one yard line.

P. M. Team

The game ended with the p.m. team in possession of the ball at mid-field. Outstanding for the a.m. team were, Watts, Atteberry, Mecchi and Davis. Hall Mascareanes, Ruelas, Thur, Miller and Del Pape stood out for the p.m. team. Final score—Colma p.m. 12, Colma a.m. 2.

Deer From 1951 Until Eternity

How long can California's annual deer kill keep climbing Game managers and experts of half a dozen governmental agencies believe that the maximum sustained yield has not yet been reached. If—and all hands agree that it's a big "if"—intelligent management practices to protect and improve range conditions can be continued, the average California hunter can expect to bring home at least one deer every two years from 1952 until eternity.

By a Congressional act in 185 California was granted 46,00 acres of land for the benefit of "seminary of learning," and 600 acres for public buildings.

SANTA CLAUS RIDES AGAIN

By RIDGE CUMMINGS

Every year you read the loveliest things about Christmas. This is about the people who write them, an offbeat Christmas tale. I'll give you the background.

One of the ways I earn my daily bread nowadays is by writing advertising copy. I am not fond of it and it is not a full-time job. But some people write editorials for the Hearst papers, some sell gold bricks to needy widows, some swindle orphans out of their legacies, others work in fertilizer factories and still others write commercials for the radio. As they say, it's a living.

My advertising stint is done on a free-lance basis, once a week. Each Monday I stop in to chat with the genius who signs the checks and see what he wants for the coming week. Each Monday he wants the impossible.

I make notes and nod my head and say "Okay," "Right," "Will do," "You bet," "Sure," "Absolutely," and other brief affirmative remarks. They must of necessity be brief because I couldn't sandwich in more than a couple of words at one time.

Speech Gift

It is truly remarkable how the mantle of eloquence seems to descend upon those fortunate people who are in a position to hire us wage slaves. In our presence they acquire the gift of tongues.

My current employer alternates between striding around his office waving his arms in declamatory fashion and sitting on the small of his back with his feet on his desk, the soles directly in sequence with his face and my line of vision. When he has made what he considers a particularly good point he pivots his feet at a ninety degree angle and looks between his shoes at me to gauge my reaction.

Since I have usually spent in advance the pittance I am due to receive for that week's work, I try to make my reaction favorable. If my dissimulation improves much more I'm going to take out a card in the Screen Actor's Guild and forget all about him.

Well, last Monday this good soul looked at me between his Nunn-Bushes and said:

"Ridge, what we need this week is a Christmas story. Don't you think so?"

"It would be time—"

Timely

"You're right, it is a very timely idea. You have to admit I'm right on the beam. How would you be able to do your work if you didn't have me to give you ideas? I know what's going on. I keep my fingers on the pulse of the public. I'm what you call hep, isn't that right?"

During the previous pause I had tried to say more than one word but I don't make the same mistake twice in the same five minutes. Maybe I'll repeat an error the next day or even the next half hour but not within five minutes. I'm smart that way. So I said, "Right."

"All right," said the big man. "Now we want some copy that will make people spend money and buy our product. Remember that's the big thing. Punch, punch, punch. You tend to forget that. Don't go off on those literary tangents. Keep commercial. Remember you're selling. Not entertaining, let somebody else do that. You just entertain them enough to get them reading our stuff and then you punch, punch, punch. Got it?"

"Got it."

"All right. Now give me a Christmas idea."

"Well once the New York Sun—"

Little Girl Writes

"I know, I know. I heard that before. The little girl writes in and asks if there is a Santa Claus and the editor writes back on the front page and says 'Yes Virginia, yes there is a Santa Claus.' What do you think I'm paying you for? I can think up corny ideas like that myself."

"I was thinking of a switch."

"I don't want a switch. I want something new, fresh. Something that will sell."

He peered at me between his shoes and then got up and paced the room. I didn't have an idea in my head. Not a one except that it was time I started looking for another job. Then I thought of something that wasn't commercial but seemed worthwhile.

Message

"How about a general message on the spirit of Christmas? The spirit of birthday giving, peace on earth and good will to all men, brothers under the skin? If we're all children of nature then we must all be brothers, something like that? We ought to stress understanding and tolerance."

"I don't see that selling our product."

"What you're selling this week is just goodwill. Institutional advertising. The message and the firm name underneath. It happens I believe in this brotherhood stuff, so I think I could write something pretty good."

"No." The big man sat down again and hoisted up his feet. "That's not it That's out."

The thought came to me that maybe I ought to quit right then instead of waiting until the first of the year. He must have read my mind.

Touchy

"You don't have to get touchy now," he said, giving me what he meant for a smile, though it reminded me of the way a tiger shark looks in the movies when he swims close to the trapped diver.

"Part of your idea was all right," he went on. "We can salvage some of it, the part about giving. It's more blessed to give than to receive. We can use that, stress that. The joy of giving, bringing smiles of gratitude. Punch on that. Think up a human interest angle. Play on their pride, on their vanity, envy. Use sex, the theme of keeping the little woman happy. Anything so long as it sells. And we want to illustrate it with the star of Bethlehem. I've got the art work left over from last year."

He looked at me expectantly, hoping I'd compliment him on his foresight in saving last year's engravings. I ruined his day by merely nodding.

"Hand in your copy as early as you can this week because I want to give it a big spread. If I'm not in leave it with my secretary. Got it?"

"Check."

So I came home to the typewriter and sat down to write his Christmas story. But for some reason I found myself telling the story behind the story.

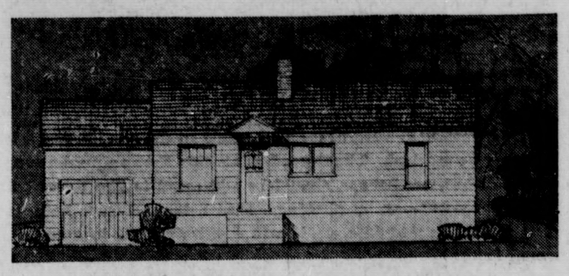

The spirit of giving. I'm all for Christmas, especially for kids. But it gripes me to think of the profit that lug will make out of generous human impulses.

Christmas, ain't it wonderful.

So You're Going to Build??

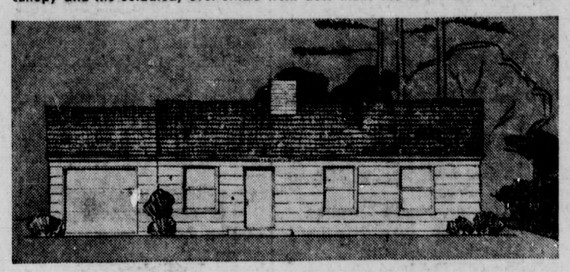

from SMALL HOMES GUIDE

Good overall proportions, good balance of architectural features, a definite center of interest are three most vital factors in home design. Without these a house gives the impression something is wrong. Many a designer has planned a house well, only to have it changed in the interests of economy or whimsey. If you have selected a good design, and certain changes are necessary to make the home fit your own family picture, consult an architect if possible before making the changes. His opinion won't cost you much and may save you from anguish every time you come up the front walk. We show here how easy it is to go wrong, with three different versions using the same floor plan.

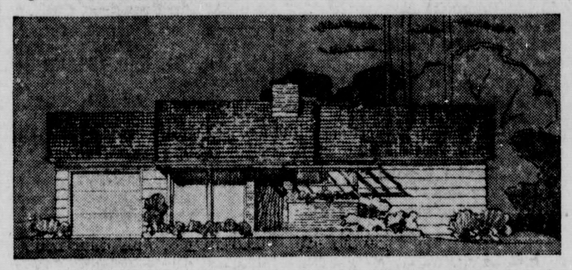

Poor Proportion—Poor Balance—No Center of Interest

House without a personality. The first blow to the eye is the ugly front "stoop" and expanse of foundation wall. The large window at the left, and the complicated garage door paneling give an out-of-balance appearance. The inadequate door canopy and the outdated, over-ornate front door make the house suffer still more.

Good Proportion—Fair Balance—Still No Center of Interest

Same house, but better. Roof lines are evened up and brought down to give a longer, lower, better-proportioned look. Balance is improved immensely by bringing the house down to ground level, by enlarging windows, by accenting horizontal lines. The heavier chimney helps too. But something still is lacking. We might say here is a good house, but there is nothing exciting about it.

Good Proportion—Good Balance—Definite Center of Interest

Our house has become exciting! The architect's skill has done things to snap the eye to attention. Trellis work, modern window treatment and planting wall at the right of the doorway become the central point of a composition. From this point the eye is led naturally to the balancing secondary point of interest left of the doorway, then to contemplation of the whole. Over-all balance of the design is improved further by breaking up roof lines and by moving the window at the right around to the end wall.

Postmaster Issues Annual Appeal For Residents To Mail Xmas Gifts Early

Postmaster John F. Fixa opened the Yuletide Season officially today. He issued his annual appeal for early mailing of Christmas greeting cards and gift packages.

The Postmaster expects the greatest flood of Yuletide mail in local history. "This year's deluge of Christmas mail will strain post office facilities severely," he states. "But we'll get everything delivered by Christmas, if the public cooperates whole-heartedly with us."

Christmas packages for distant States should be mailed by December 11th and parcels and greeting cards for local delivery should be mailed by December 18th.

Preparations to handle the Yuletide rush have already begun. The post office is training extra mail clerks and carriers, setting up new sorting tables, hauling out reserve mail sacks and procuring extra trucks. All branch post offices are stocking up with extra supplies of postage stamps and every effort will be made to keep the mails moving.

To keep the Christmas mail on schedule, the Postmaster asks that you—

1. Stop at the post office next week to purchase the extra stamps you're going to need, thus avoiding last-minute crowds. When buying stamps for Christmas cards, bear in mind the desirability of sending the cards by first class mail at the 3 cent rate.

2. Check and revise your Christmas card address list this coming weekend.

3. Lay in adequate supplies of heavy cardboard, sturdy outer paper, strong cord, for wrapping gift parcels.

4. "Above all," the Postmaster said, "please address plainly and completely. PRINT IN INK the full name and address including zone number on the face of each parcel. And don't forget to put your RETURN ADDRESS on the outside as well as in the inside of parcels, a safety measure which will help to identify lost or damaged articles.

If you worry about the recipient peeking, Postmaster Fixa advises pasting "Do Not Open Until Christmas" stickers on packages.

Local Man Fires Revolver Near Phone

Lending action to words, Alfred Rooney, 696 Templeton, fired a .38 revolver within a foot of the telephone he was using Wednesday night to inform his mother-in-law he was contemplating suicide.

When she heard the gun go off, and then could not get Rooney to speak, his mother-in-law called officers.

Police arrived at 6:40 p.m. at the Templeton vaenue home to find the light on, and the door locked. They broke the glass in the door, opened it, and discovered Rooney flat on his back near the telephone. The .38 revolver was clutched in his hand, and a bullet hole was visible in a window six feet away.

Rushed to Junipero Serra hospital, Rooney was found to have suffered only a minor powder burn over his left eye. Police report in addition to the burn, doctors found he was "intoxicated."

D. J. RUSSELL, whose election to succeed A. T. Mercier as president of the Southern Pacific Company on December 31, has just been announced by the railroad's Board of Directors. Russell is now the company's executive vice president. After completing his engineering education at Stanford University in 1920 he started with SP as a timekeeper. BROADMOOR GROUP TO SELL XMAS TREES

The Community Presbyterian church of Broadmoor Village will sell Christmas trees and wreaths during the holiday season to assist the building fund.

Over 1,000 trees of various sizes will be on sale beginning December 1 at 89th and Junipero Serra boulevard, between Rudies and the Serra theatre.

Forty men will take turns, day and night, to serve the customers at reasonable prices.

Two-thirds of Lake Tahoe is in California.

Aa total of 455 California cities and towns assess a sewer tax.

Kip's Ready To Serve You

Ready now to serve Daly City is Kip's, 6165 Mission, with an assortment of fabrics, lambequins, draperies, bed spreads and cornices.

The shop, which opened here recently, is centrally located and easily reached from every point in Daly City.

There are plenty of gift suggestions, too, to be found in the modern store. As a matter of fact, the management suggests you give yourself a gift, by putting up new curtains for Christmas.

Interior decoration advice is yours for the asking, and along with the estimates, is, of course, free.

Lack Of Licenses Brings Fines

Nello Marchetti, 26 Market St., pleaded guilty and was fined $10 in Daly City court last week for employing a barber who did not have a barber's license. The barber, Homer G. Maynard, 16 Collins street, Colma, pleaded guilty at the same hearing and was also fined $10.

Charges were brought against the two men by George Peterson, investigator for the state board of barber examiners.

Glamour Puss To Be Chosen At Big Cat Show

National Event Slated December 1

Who will be Miss Glamour Puss of 1951?

That is the $64 question to be decided at the fifth annual Northern California Championship Cat Show, which will have a two-day run at the Oakland Auditorium on December 1 and 2. Nearly 500 pedigreed and rare kitties from all sections of the United States, as well as the representative of the masses in catdom—the common household mouser—will compete for trophies, ribbons and the grand championship prize—Miss Glamour Puss—the best cat in the show.

Two nationally known feline experts who have judged top American shows for many years, will assume the ask of judging the hundreds of fine specimens of cats. They are: Mrs. Lester O'Neill of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Mrs. Edith Schulte of St. Louis, Missouri.

Among the unusual cats to go on display will be what is believed to be the world's heavyweight champion white Persian, which tips the scales at 30 pounds; the rare Abyssinian and Russian Blue, as well as the Burmese and Siamese.

Kittens, too, will have their chance for prizes. There will be special classes in which the yearlings and younger may compete.

Dorothy Denning, show manager, announced that children under 12 will be admitted free to the show, provided they are accompanied by an adult.

The West's biggest cat show is sponsored by the Golden Gate Cat Club of Oakland.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

IS YOUR HOME WIRING SYSTEM AS MODERN AS YOUR APPLIANCES?

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

A generation ago, electrical appliances for the home were practically non-existent; today more than 90 such work-savers are available. Tomorrow—how many?

And every one of them needs proper and adequate wiring for satisfactory service, says the General Electric Consumers Institute. Three of them—the clothes dryer, the electric range and the electric water heater—need 230-volt, three-wire systems, and because many houses, especially those built many years ago, are equipped with only two-wire service, it's a good idea to check with a utility company if you plan to install a range, a dryer or a water heater.

You can get three-wire service—but you have to ask for it. (Most new houses include three-wire service in their original plans, to meet the needs of modern electrical living.)

Plan for Enough Circuits

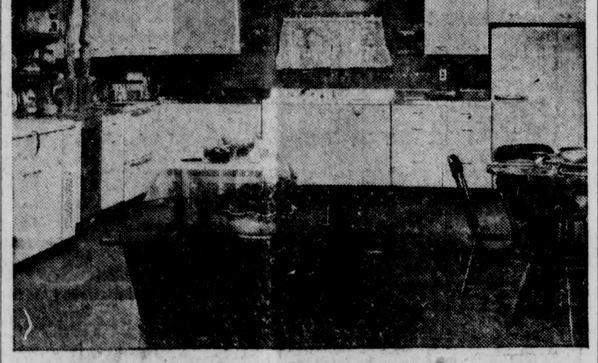

When you're planning a new home, providing enough circuits to meet any present or future requirements is simple—and inexpensive. But to re-wire a house once it is completed is difficult—and expensive. So it's a much better idea to do the job right the first time.

Have You Enough Outlets?

Needless to say, all the circuits in the world won't help if there aren't enough convenience outlets to make use of the electric power the circuits supply.

The FHA regulations for home-building and the National Electrical Code specify one convenience outlet to every 20 feet of perimeter. That means at least one in every wall; if the wall is broken by a doorway, you'll need two on that side to avoid the danger of long unsightly extension wires across or up-and-over the doorway.

The importance of having enough outlets is particularly obvious in the kitchen, where most electrical appliances are centered. In that room, outlets spaced over work surfaces, about five feet apart, will give you enough places to plug in toasters, waffle irons, roasters, sandwich grills and other equipment without resorting to three-way plugs (and probably a blown fuse).

Pretty, isn't it? But the successful performance of all these electrical aids to modern living depends on the wiring system you choose for your home. Be sure you have an adequate one.

Maybe it's Cold Outside!

It used to be that everyone talked about the weather, but nobody did anything about it. That's all changed, now. Passengers on today's modern trains have weather tailor-made for them—at least while they're aboard. It's always "fair" on today's streamliners, thanks to the miracle of air-conditioning.

Chair Cars on Southern Pacific's great streamliners have been built with your comfort the first consideration. Dust-free, draft-free air-conditioning. No-glare fluorescent lighting. Soft-as-a-cloud foam-rubber seats. Lots of leg room and move-around room. Circulating ice water. Feather-touch doors. Spacious washrooms.

That's why Chair Cars on Southern Pacific streamliners are the most luxurious form of all low-cost transportation.
